Project Release Plan

Binary Bits/Digital Task Management

The Digital Task Management Application allows group members to sync their phone with one another and divide up the work into specific assigned tasks. Some functionality of this application include, but not limited to, updating each of the task's status and receiving a total completion status when every task is complete. Also, a member can add tasks of which the other members of the group will be notified of--allowing users to manage their project digitally.

Binary Bits/Digital Task Management
